Directions for making a salve for any strain or sore.

TAKE a pint of the best fallad oil, half a pound of red lead, and an ounce of bees-wax; boil these together, and then put in the wax; it is enough when it grows brown; you may cut your cloth in shreds, dip it in, and then hang it over sticks to cool for the sear-cloth; pour the rest on an oiled board, and make it in rolls.

2] Or, Boil bran in wine vinegar to the consistence of a poultice; put in a small lump of hog's lard, or fresh butter, and apply it warm, renewing the poultice once in twelve hours for two or three times.

If thou wilt live in peace and rest,
Hear, and see, and say the best.
Peace, peace alone is better far,
Than multitudes of triumphs are.

JANUARY. The FIRST MONTH.

MORAL PRECEPTS.

FIRST worship God, he that forgets to pray,
Bids not himself good-morrow, nor good-day.
Let thy first labour be, to purge thy sin,
And serve him first, whence all things did begin.

Honour thy parents, to prolong thine end,
With them, though for a truth, do not contend.
Though all should truth defend, do thou lose rather
The truth awhile, than lose their love for ever.

FEBRUARY. The SECOND MONTH.

Whoever makes his father's heart to bleed,
Shall have a child that will revenge the deed.

Swear not: an oath is like a dangerous dart,
Which shot rebounds, to strike the shooter's heart.

So live with man, as if God's curious eye,
Did every where, into thy actions pry.

For never yet were men so void of sense,

So fully fac'd with brazen impudence,

As that they durst before mens eyes commit

Their beastly lusts, lest they should witness it :

MARCH. The THIRD MONTH.

How dare they then offend, when God shall see,
Who must alone both Judge and Jury be?

Think that is just, 'tis not enough to do,
Unless thy very thoughts are upright too.
Defend the truth, for that, who would not die?
A coward is, and gives himself the lye.

Thy credit wary keep, 'tis quickly gone;
Being got by many actions, lost by one.

APRIL. The FOURTH MONTH.

Hear much, but little speak, a wise man fears,
And will not use his tongue so much as ears.
The tongue, if it the hedge of truth do break,
Will others shame, and its own ruin speak.
I never yet did truly read of any
Undone by hearing, but by speaking many.
The reason's this, "the ears, if chaste and holy,
"Do let in wit—the tongue doth let out folly."

MAY. The FIFTH MONTH.

To all alike be courteous, meek and kind,
 A winning carriage with indifferent mind.
 But not familiar, that must be exempt,
 "Grooms fancy love soon turns into contempt."
 Be sure he be at least as good as thee,
 To whom thy friendship shall familiar be.
 Spare in thy youth, lest age should find thee poor,
 When time is past, and thou canst spare no more.

D	D r. f.	D sou.	ag.	A Servant Maid turned Mistress ; her former Mistress drudging in the Kitchen.
1	11 46	3 32	19	A T A L E. SO hazardous is ev'ry state On life's precarious stage ; We can't foresee th' events of fate, In either youth or age. How careful ev'ry one shou'd be, A caution much neglected, To act, that in adversity, They mayn't be disrespected. A lord, to-day, a mighty man, Who never dream't of sorrow, Howe'er in life he draws his plan, May be a slave to-morrow. By arbitrary means, we ne'er Gain love from our inferiors ; Then justly let us act, for fear They should be our superiors. The woman drudging in that place ; (Observe the print beside) Was one of those that catch disgrace, And bait the hook with pride, The Maid who us'd to watch her call, And at her back was ready, By her imprudence, and downfall, Is now become her lady.

UNE. The Sixth Month.

No coupl'd misery is so great in either,

As age and want, when both do meet together.

Trust not a man unknown, he may deceive thee,

And doubt the man thou know'ft, for he may leave thee.

And yet for to prevent exception too,

It's best, not seem to doubt, although you do.

Each man three devils hath, self-born afflictions,

Th' unruly tongue, the belly, and affections.

Charm.

Charm theſe, ſuch holy conjurations can
Gain thee, the friendſhip both of God and man.

If with a ſtranger thou diſcourſe, firſt learn
By ſtricteſt obſervation to diſcern,
if he be wiſer than thyſelf; if ſo,
Be dumb, and rather chuſe by him to know.
But if thyſelf perchance the wiſer be,
Then do thou ſpeak, that he may learn by thee.

AUGUST. The EIGHTH MONTH.

Suspicious men think others false, but he
Cozens himself, that will too credulous be.
For thy friends sake, let no mistrust be shown,
And shun to be too credulous for thine own.

First think, and if thy thoughts approve thy will,
Then speak, and what thou speakest do fulfil.

In this unconstant age, when all mens minds,
In various change strive to outvie the winds.

SEPTEMBER. The NINTH MONTH

When no man sets his foot upon the square,
But treads on globes and circles, when we are
The apes of fortune, and desire to be
Revolved on as fickle wheels-as she.
Let thy book a garden be, 'twill help thee most,
To regain that, which we in Adam lost.
Safe in thy breast close lock up thy intents;
For he that knows thy purpose, best prevents.

OCTOBER. The TENTH MONTH.

Be well advis'd, and wary counsel take,
 Ere thou dost any action undertake.
 Having undertaken, thy endeavours bend
 To bring thy actions to a perfect end.
 To gather wealth by fraud, do not presume :
 "A little evil got will much consume."
 To doubtful matters, do not headlong run :
 What's well left off, were better not begun.

NOVEMBER. The ELEVEN. MONTH

To tell thy miseries, will no comfort breed,
Men help thee most, that think thou hast no need.
But if the world once thy misfortunes know,
Thou soon shalt lose a friend, and find a foe.

Early up, and then to business set
Thy servants, and no proper time neglect.
Keep no more hands in pay, than what will be,
A certain profit, not a charge to thee.

DECEMBER. The Twelfth MONTH.

For he that keeps more idle hands than one,
Keeps sometimes less than half, and sometimes none.

Spare not, nor spend too much; be this thy care,
Spare but to spend, and only spend to spare.

Who spends too much may want, and so complain,
But he spends best, that spares to spend again.

Take thou no care, how to defer thy death,
And give more rest to this mortal breath.

D. Dr. se. D. fou. ag. ANECDOTE of King JAMES.

SOME time after James the First came to the crown of England, one of his Courtiers, who brought the King under considerable obligations to him, had been teasing him one day to make a gentleman of him, as he expressed it. The King, fretted with his importunity, replied in a pet, "Out mon, I can mak a Knight or a Laird o'ye, but there's na mon can mak a gentleman o'ye."

On DUELLING.

IT was a good remark which Gustavus Adolphus made, when he forbade duelling under pain of death: "If my officers, said he, will fight, let them fight my enemies. I would have them be soldiers, not gladiators."

When the gallant Col. Gardner was once challenged to fight a duel, he returned this laconic answer, "I fear sinning; you know I don't fear fighting."

MADAM Dacier said, I treat dreams as I would a known liar, who, though he generally tells falsehoods, may some times possibly tell the truth.

Would'it thou live long? the only means are these,
'Bove Galens diet, or Hippocrates.

" Strive to live well, tread in the upright ways,

" And rather count thy actions than thy days :"

Then thou hast liv'd enough amongst us here,

For every day well spent I count a year.

Live well, and then how soon so e're thou die,

Thou art of age to claim eternity.

But he that out-lives Nestor, and appears

T' have past the date of grey Methus'lem's years:

If he his life to sloth and sin doth give,

" I say he only was, he did not live.

Good Advice, if taken in time.

The SHEEP and BRAMBLE-BUSH.

A Thick twisted brake, in the time of a storm,

Securely defended a sheep;

So snug for a while he lay shelter'd and warm,

It quietly sooth'd him asleep.

The clouds are now scatter'd—the winds are at peace,

The sheep's to his pasture inclin'd ;

But, ah ! the fell thicket lays hold of his fleece,

His coat is left forfeit behind.

My friend, who the thicket of law never try'd,

Consider before you get in ;

Though judgment and justice are both on your side,

You'll surely be fleec'd to the skin.

The THREE WARNINGS.

A T A L E.

WHEN sports went round, and all were gay,

On Farmer Dobson's wedding day,

Death call'd aside the jocund groom

With him into another room,

And looking grave—you must, says he,

Quit your sweet bride and come with me.—

With you? and quit my Susan's side !

With you? the hapless husband cry'd :

Young as I am—'tis monstrous hard—

Besides, in truth, I'm not prepar'd :

My thoughts on other matters go ;

This is my wedding night you know.

What more he urg'd I have not heard,

His

His reasons could not well be stronger ;

So Death the poor delinquent spar'd,
And left to live a little longer.

Yet calling up a serious look,
His hour glass trembling while he spoke,
Neighbour, he said, farewell ; no more
Shall Death disturb your mirthful hour ;
And further, to avoid all blame
Of cruelty upon my name,

To give you time for preparation,
And fit you for your future station,
Three several warnings you shall have
Before you're summon'd to the grave,
Willing, for once, I'll quit my prey

And grant a kind reprieve,
In hopes you'll have no more to say,
But when I call again this way,

Well pleas'd, the world you'll leave.
To these conditions both consented,
And parted perfectly contented.

What next the hero of our tale besel,
How long he liv'd, how wise, how well,
How roundly he pursu'd his course,
And smok'd his pipe and strok'd his horse,
The willing muse shall tell :

He chaffer'd, then he bought, he sold,
Nor once perceiv'd his growing old,

Nor thought of death as near ;
His friends not false, his wife no shrew,
Many his gains, his children few,

He pass'd his hours in peace,
But while he view'd his wealth encrease,
While thus along life's dusty road,
The beaten track content he trod,
Old Time whose haste no mortal spares,
Uncall'd, unheeded, unawares
Brought on his eightieth year.

And now one night in musing mood,
As all alone he fate,

Th' unwelcome messenger of fate

Once more before him stood.

Half dead with anger and surprize,

So soon return'd ! old Dobson cries.

So

So soon d'ye call it, Death replies :
Surely my friend you're but in jest,
Since I was here before,

'Tis six and thirty years at least,
And you are now fourscore.

So much the worse, the clown rejoind'd,
To spare the aged would be kind :
However, see you have your warrant,
Else you are come on a fool's errand,
Besides you promis'd me three warnings,
Which I have look'd for nights and mornings ;
And, for the loss of time and ease
I can recover damages.

I know, cries Death, that at the best,
I seldom am a welcome guest ;
But, don't be captious friend, at least ;
I little thought you'd still be able
To stump about your farm and stable ;
Your years have run to a great length,
I wish you joy tho', of your strength.

Hold, says the farmer, not so fast,
I have been lame these four years past.
And no great wonder, Death replies,
However you still keep your eyes ;
And sure to see one's wife and friends
For legs and arms would make amends.

Perhaps, says Dobson, so it might,
But I have lately lost my sight.
This is a shocking story, faith !
Yet there's some comfort still, says Death,
Each strives your sadness to amuse ;
I warrant you hear all the news.
There's none, cries he, and if there were
I'm grown so deaf I could not hear.
Nay then, the spectre stern rejoind'd,
These are unwarrantable yearnings,
If you are lame, and deaf and blind,
You've had your three sufficient warnings ;
So come along, no more we'll part —
He said, and touch'd him with his dart ;
And now old Dobson turning pale,
Yields to his fate—so ends my tale.

WHEN azure skies fair weather proclaim,
Take your cloak to guard against rain;
When skies lour and weather is naught,
If you get wet, 'tis your own fault.

E P I T A P H.

GAILY I lived, as ease and nature taught,
And spent my little life without a thought;
And am amazed that Death, that tyrant grim,
Should think of me, who never thought of him.
